

ABSTRACT

A method for generating a panoramic image that enables a user to obtain panoramic photographs with a 5 digital camera without the aid of a computer system or specialized lenses. A digital camera according to the present techniques captures a series of image frames as a user pans the digital camera through a panoramic image scene and combines the captured image 10 frames while the image frames are being captured.